Vaduz, 9 November 2018 – This year marked the tenth anniversary of the Global Private Banking Awards, which were presented in London on November 7 by the Financial Times in conjunction with its specialist magazines Professional Wealth Management and The Banker. Raiffeisen Privatbank Liechtenstein was honoured with the award for Best Private Bank in Liechtenstein.

Sponsored by well-reputed industry publications, the Global Private Banking Awards are among the most prestigious prizes in the international private banking sector. A 15-strong independent jury named Raiffeisen Privatbank Liechtenstein the top private bank in Liechtenstein in view of its consistently positive performance over the last years, its clear growth strategy and its outstanding customer relationship management.

"We are delighted to have received this internationally renowned award as Best Private Bank in Liechtenstein. It is an impressive acknowledgement of our very positive business performance and growth in recent years. The jury took into account not only our strategic orientation, but also details of how we manage our customer relationships and the results we achieve. It thus honours the outstanding performance of our entire team," says CEO Dr. Alexander Putzer.

"To receive this award from the Financial Times Group, particularly in a year in which we experienced a change of ownership, is a very special acknowledgement of the consistency and stability of our work, with its strong customer focus. It is also a clear indicator that we are on the right track with our strategy," says CFO Dr. Georg Stöckl.

Launched by the Financial Times in 2009, the Global Private Banking Awards assess private banks of high standing from all over the world every year.
